52 Killed as Plane Crashes Into Ocean

Airliner 150 Yards From Shore

One Man Escapes Fatal Mishap of Argentine Craft

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An Argentine airliner with 52 persons aboard crashed into the Atlantic Ocean Friday night off the sea-side resort of Mar del Plata. Only one survivor was found.

Almost four hours after the vacation flight crashed a man was found alive on the beach, his clothes burned or ripped off. All others on the twin-engine plane apparently perished. Only three bodies were recovered in predawn darkness.

Many Presumed Trapped
Searchers who were hampered by stormy waters said many of those in the plane presumably were trapped inside and drowned. Among those on the passenger list were Eduardo Braun Menendez, one of Argentina's most famous scientists, and Dr. Jose Mex-zadra, another well-known scientist. There was no immediate confirmation that they actually had been aboard.

The plane belonged to Austral Airlines, a new company known throughout the country for its penguin trademark because of flights to Argentina's cold and bleak southland.

On Vacation Flight
The airliner was on a special summertime vacation flight from Buenos Aires to Mar del Plata, 240 miles to the south, and then to Bahia Blanca, another 260 miles west.

It was coming in for a landing at Mar del Plata in windy and rainy weather when it smashed into the ocean about 150 yards from shore.

The airline said it carried 47 passengers and a crew of five.

State Auto Group Comes Out Against Proposed Gas Boost

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The New York State Automobile Assn. lodged a protest today against Gov. Rockefeller's proposal to increase the state gasoline and diesel-fuel tax.

The state's highway program "is not responsible for the deficit in the state's budget and motorists should not be forced to pay more than their share in meeting general state expenses," Harry B. Crowley, association president, said in a letter to legislative leaders.

Legislation to carry out Rockefeller's proposal was introduced in the Legislature Wednesday. The four-cent-a-gallon gas tax would be raised two cents. The six-cent diesel-fuel levy would go to nine cents.

"We cannot urge on you strongly enough that the proposed tax increase will adversely affect the economy of our state and even the nation and will add to the vicious cost spiral now being felt by motorists," Crowley's letter said in asking rejection of the proposed legislation.

Castro Says 450 to Die Before Executions End

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro estimates that 450 persons will die before the current wave of executions ends in Cuba.

Already 205 persons have been reported shot on charges of crimes against the people during the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista. Cuban prisons recently held an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 more for trial on similar charges but some have been released and others given jail terms.

Calls for Rally
Castro gave his estimate to a crowd of about 10,000 in front of the presidential palace Friday night. He called for a rally of half a million persons in Havana next Wednesday to signify approval of the executions.

The Cuban people generally have applauded the trials and executions. Police broke up 200 persons in front of a police station Friday demonstrating for lynching of one suspect.

The actions have aroused sharp criticism in the United States and other countries, however. Castro invited foreign newsmen and diplomats to attend the trials to check their fairness.

Paper Asks for Halt

Newspapers in Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, Argentina and Costa Rica have called for a halt to the bloodshed. The Uruguayan representative to the United Nations appealed to Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to stop the killings. Other Latin-American delegates at the U. N. reportedly are planning a similar appeal.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) suggested in Washington that Castro invite U. N. observers to check the trial and execution methods. Some U. S. and Cuban businessmen and industrialists are paying advance taxes to help the revolutionary government, the New York Times reported. A dispatch from Havana said a treasury official estimated about three million dollars had been paid in advance in recent days.

Names New Envoy

The Cuban government named Havana lawyer Ernesto Dihago as Cuban ambassador to the United States. It was reported in Washington that career diplomat Philip A. Bonsal, presently U. S. ambassador to Bolivia, will be the new American ambassador to Cuba.

Four Given Summons For Traffic Acts

Four persons were issued summonses for traffic violations Friday and early today by local police, and the summonses are returnable Tuesday in city court.

Robert S. Edmonds, 54, of 39 Sycamore Street, was issued a summons at 3:40 p. m. Friday by Officer Floyd Krom for an unlicensed vehicle. The summons is returnable in city court Tuesday at 9 a. m.

Gerard J. Scharsch, 26, of 15 Sticks Avenue, was issued a speeding summons when he was picked up on Wurts Street and 55 minutes later was issued a summons for no change of address on his registration.

John F. Stiller, 68, of Sawkill Road, was issued a summons for passing a stop sign at Fair and John Streets by Officer John Houghtaling, and Walter Churton, 46, of Bangall, was issued a similar summons at the same location. Stiller's summons is returnable Tuesday at 8 p. m. in city court, and Churton's at 9 a. m.

Rockefeller Is Still Cool To Off-Track Bet Revenue

NEW YORK (AP)—Off-track betting appears to have only a longshot chance for legalization here in view of Gov. Rockefeller's lack of enthusiasm for the proposal.

After meeting Friday with Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Rockefeller was asked if he had not implied during his campaign last fall that he was opposed to the plan. He replied:

"It would be better to say I was not enthusiastic. I did not have enough information to come to an intelligent conclusion."

The proposal to legalize and tax off-track betting, and a suggested increase in the city sales tax from three to four per cent, are among numerous methods the city is considering to raise the estimated 145 million dollars needed to balance its budget for the coming fiscal year.

Rockefeller said, "I'm on the record as not being very enthusiastic about" off-track betting.

On a campaign tour upstate last fall, Rockefeller told reporters he "wouldn't reach out for" off-track betting as a means to raise money and commented, "I frankly don't think we want to induce people to gamble."

Wagner has since appointed a study committee, which is to recommend the city's course of action. Wagner has said he will be guided by the recommendation. Both the mayor, a Democrat, and the governor, a Republican, indicated that further discussion of the proposal must await the committee's report.

Off-track betting could be legalized only with the approval of the state Legislature and the governor.

Some Roads Still Icy, Few Mishaps

Rain, sleet and light snow transformed area roads into icy ribbons Friday afternoon and while driving was hazardous Ulster County was free of traffic mishaps and only two minor accidents were reported by Kingston police.

A total of two inches of snow fell in scattered county areas, but more than a foot of new snow clogged roads in parts of upstate New York today.

Area Roads Open

The storm, however, had dwindled into flurries generally, except in Western New York, where squalls still pummeled the Buffalo area.

Police authorities in the local area reported at noon today that roads were open, although icy in spots, and traffic was moving on the main roads. Sanding crews were reported still out working in the city and county.

The Associated Press reported at least seven persons have died in accidents connected with the storm in the state.

The Weather Bureau said 13 inches of snow had fallen at Plattsburgh, Rochester and Utica measured 9.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 6 at Massena to 16 at New York City.

High Drifts in Buffalo
In South Buffalo, drifts five feet high stalled traffic on Fuhrmann Blvd., a major route along the Lake Erie shoreline. Two diesel train engines pulled a caboose along a Lake Shore siding and took out nearly 125 motorists who were stranded Friday night.

All main roads were open in Western New York but were described by police as dangerous. Some secondary roads were clogged.

Thruway Speed Cut

The snowfall was lighter in the eastern half of the state. However, many roads were coated with ice before the snow began falling. The slippery streets created traffic jams in most Upstate cities. Many automobile accidents were reported.

The State Thruway cut its regular 60-mile-an-hour speed limit to 35 miles an hour from New York City to the Pennsylvania line. It was reduced to 20 miles an hour between Lackawanna and Silver Creek.

The Weather Bureau said the storm had moved northeast of the state. Colder weather moved in, accompanied by strong winds. Some snow flurries and squalls were expected to continue until tonight.

Death in Storms

Storm-connected deaths reported Friday night:

Troy — Clayton Simpson, 5, struck by a truck while coasting on his sled.

Cohoes — Robert Richards, 11, drowned when he fell through ice on an abandoned canal while shoveling snow so he could skate.

Queens — Max Horowitz, 85, struck by an automobile during a sleet storm.

Niagara Falls—Mrs. Helen

Hamas, 60, of Lewiston, died of a heart attack in her automobile when it became stuck in a snow drift.

Ashby Jury Will Be Drawn Monday

A panel of 150 trial jurors will be drawn Monday at the courthouse to be in attendance Feb. 3 for the trial of the Edwin W. Ashby perjury indictment.

An order of Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg was entered Friday morning directing the acting commissioner of jurors, Ward B. Tongue, to draw the panel. It will be drawn at 2 p. m.

The jurors to be drawn Monday for service beginning Feb. 3 are being summoned for trial of the indictment which charges Ashby, former Ulster County Commissioner of Jurors, with perjury. Under the original indictment Ashby is charged with perjury first degree, a felony, and also a second degree perjury count, a misdemeanor. A motion to dismiss the first indictment is pending before Justice Greenberg.

Motions will be heard Monday before Justice Greenberg in both the Ashby perjury indictments and also on the indictment charging former Kingston Public Works Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding with illegally receiving fees. In the latter case, in which James Abernethy appears as counsel, a motion for a bill of particulars will be argued.

Useful Exchange, Ike, Mikoyan Say Of Capital Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Anastas I. Mikoyan discussed U. S.-Soviet differences for an hour and 45 minutes today and Mikoyan said they agreed they had a "useful exchange of views."

The Soviet deputy premier delivered a personal message from Premier Nikita Khrushchev wishing Eisenhower good health and success on the road to better relations between our two countries.

Exchange Greetings

"The President thanked me and asked me to convey similar warm greetings to our prime minister," Mikoyan reported.

Secretary of State Dulles and other officials participated in the conference which began at 9 a. m. (EST) in Eisenhower's office.

Mikoyan, wearing his usual outdoor dress of dark grey overcoat and blue plaid scarf, walked into a room where reporters hastily gathered after the conference.

It had been generally expected that the meeting with Eisenhower would last at least two full hours since about 50 per cent of the time was devoted to translations by

IBM Reports Boost In Profits for Year

In a preliminary financial report of operations of International Business Machines Corporation for 1958 reported by Thomas J. Watson Jr., president, an increase of $171,356,602 in gross income from sales, service and rentals in the United States was indicated.

Gross income was listed for 1958 at $1,171,788,199 compared with $1,000,431,597 for 1957.

Net income for the year ended December 31, 1958 after federal income taxes amounted to $126,191,858 and increase of $36,900,269 over 1957. Income in 1957 was listed as $89,291,589.

The 1958 figure is equivalent to $10.65 a share on the 11,849,023 shares outstanding December 31, 1958, compared with the 1957 figures of $7.54 a share on 11,841,197 shares.

The number of shares outstanding December 31, 1957 adjusted for the 2 1/2 per cent stock dividend of January 28, 1958.

As previously reported under the consent decree entered into with the Department of Justice on January 25, 1956, the corporation is required to offer for sale as well as for lease new punched card accounting and data processing machines. It was also required until July 25, 1958 to permit customers to purchase punched card accounting and data processing machines previously under lease to them.

Income After Taxes

For the year 1958, the net income after taxes includes $15,636,122 derived from the outright sale to customers of machines previously under lease to them compared with $3,927,000 for the year 1957. Mr. Watson emphasized that in view of the earnings for 1958 are not directly comparable with the year 1957, and do not represent an accelerated growth rate for the corporation. He also pointed out that since these leased machines have been sold, net income from

Consumer Buying Held Key To '59 Business Recovery

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen turned to the consumer this week as the best hope for recovery in 1959.

His wants, his needs, his hidden urges and his bank account came under exhaustive study.

Five thousand retail executives attending the 48th annual convention of the National Retail Merchants Assn., in New York were told that prosperity now depends as never before on an upsurge in consumer buying.

The outlook, as envisioned by the retailers: A small rise in retail sales this year, probably about four per cent, with an explosive increase of boom proportions in the cards for 1960.

From other quarters came a warning that there will be no such explosive boom unless industry comes up with more stimulating new ideas and more new products.

Addressing an economic conference in Philadelphia, Stahl Edmunds, Ford Motor Co. economist, declared: "The boom of 1946 to 1958 was built upon all the accumulated innovations generated in the 15 years from 1930 to 1945. Today we have no backlog of ideas to draw upon. We must propel the next business cycle by our own efforts. It will be a 'think-as-you-go' boom if there is to be any boom at all."

While management strove to create new consumer wants, the nation's comeback from recession showed further signs of slowing down.

Unemployment in December bounced back past the four-million mark. Personal income slipped back from November's record high, chiefly because many companies reduced or skipped their year-end dividends to stockholders.

Industrial production as measured by the Federal Reserve Board moved up one percentage point, compared with a jump of three points in November. The December index — 142 per cent of the 1947-49 average — compared with a record peak of 146 in December 1956 and a recession low of 126 last April.

Homebuilding made a good showing. Foundations for 91,000 dwelling units were poured—the highest December total on record.

Auto, Steel Gain

Auto and steel production moved up another notch this week. The nation's auto factories rolled out 135,000 passenger cars — 24 per cent

Approval Of Leaves Clarified

Both Resolutions Win by 16-8 Vote On Friday Night

Legislation was approved Friday night at a special meeting of the board of supervisors which clarifies the regulations concerning leaves of absence for county employees who do not come under Civil Service regulations.

The board also adopted a resolution ratifying and approving the action of the Ulster County Jury Board last December when the Jury Board granted a leave of absence to Edwin W. Ashby, commissioner of jurors, and named Deputy County Clerk Ward B. Tongue to temporarily fill the office.

Democrats Oppose
Both resolutions were adopted by a 16 to 8 vote, with all Democratic members of the board present voting against the resolutions except Supervisor Joseph Turk (D) of the fourth ward who favored the action.

The Democratic members present voted in opposition after Democratic Minority Leader John J. Gaffney had moved to table the resolution concerning adoption of rules regulating leaves of absence of county employees not within Civil Service regulations. The motion to table was lost by a 16 to 8 vote. Turk voting with the 15 Republican supervisors.

Claims Rejected

The only other business before the board was the rejection of several claims against the county filed by persons who allege damages resulting from accidents which they allege were due to county negligence.

The question of the legality of the action taken by the Ulster County Jury Board on Dec. 13 was raised by County Judge Louis G. Bruhn.

AG Opinion Sought

County Judge Bruhn on January 6 requested an opinion from Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz with regard to the legality of the appointment by the Jury Board of Ward B. Tongue as acting Commissioner of Jurors following the granting of the leave of absence to Ashby.

Attorney General Lefkowitz's office wrote that the granting of temporary relief from duty of Ashby was "tantamount to a request for a leave of absence" and since the Commissioner of Jurors is a county office, "It would seem that such leave of absence could be granted only by the Board of Supervisors or pursuant to rules and regulations adopted by such Board."

The opinion further stated that "if such rules and regulations do not authorize the granting of a leave of absence by the County Jury Board, the Board of Supervisors may act upon the request and approve the action taken by the County Jury Board."

Granting to a leave of absence to the Commissioner of Jurors would "create a temporary vacancy for the duration of such leave of absence in the office" and the opinion goes on to state that "the law abhors vacancies in public office and the presumption is against legislative intent to create or allow a condition which may result in any executive or administrative office remaining unoccupied."

It is my opinion that the County Jury Board should exercise implicit power in order to avoid an interregnum in the office  for the duration of the temporary vacancy caused by the leave of absence  duly granted to

Feeney Tug Is Partially Raised

The Margaret Feeney, a tugboat of the Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp., which sank in Rondout Creek off Abel Street Dec. 13, was partially raised Friday from the icy waters.

It is slung between two Reliance dry-cargo steel barges which were used in the raising operation.

The barges were filled with water and sunk beside the tug. The tug was attached to the barges by means of cables and I-beams, water pumped out of the barges which then rose to the surface, lifting the tug with them.

Water will be pumped from the tug and repairs made to its damaged hull, reportedly punctured as the result of a mishap last December which caused the vessel to founder and settle to the bottom of the creek at a point not far from the Abel Street office of the firm.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Robert E. Lee, often called the soldiers' soldier, was a living model of Christ's edict to "love your enemies."

A leader, whose birthday falls this week, was born Jan. 19, 1807. A master strategist and brilliant leader, he had only one thing in his life: war.

"What a cruel thing war is," he once observed sorrowfully after a great victory, "to fill our hearts with hatred instead of love for our neighbors, and to devastate the fair face of this beautiful world."

A man of prayer and sturdy faith, Lee on another occasion wrote: "I remember . . . in the Good Book that we must love our enemies. I have fought against the Union soldiers, but I have never cherished any vindictive feelings. I have never seen the day when I did not pray for them."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 17 1959

GOP ON SPOT

As the 86th Congress starts its labors, the badly defeated Republicans are making their first try at a comeback from the low they hit in the November general elections.

They have confined their initial effort to the U. S. House of Representatives, and have decided, at least for the time, to offer not different ideas but more energy.

There is no ideological daylight showing between the newly chosen GOP House Leader, Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, and the 20-year veteran, Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts. The feeling simply is that Halleck, younger, a wily, aggressive strategist, should push the Republican cause better in the House in the next two crucial years.

Probably a substantial number of the party's rank and file would agree with the general proposition that after a resounding election loss any party can stand a leadership "shot in the arm."

But whether this change is even a half-way response to the tests now put upon the GOP remains to be seen. Many lawmakers embracing the staunch conservatism of Martin and Halleck went into the dust in November. This suggests the voters may be looking for more than just extra energy.

So does the fact that they elected a heavily Democratic Congress with a clear liberal bent.

No one is predicting this Congress, with its still strongly entrenched conservatives in key posts, will write a broadly liberal program. But there is no doubt what the voters did and what complexion they gave the House and Senate.

Despite this outcome, many Republicans remain persuaded that what the voters want from them is not "carbon copy" liberalism but their standard conservatism, better and more forcefully expressed and acted upon.

With their shrunken minorities, Republicans in 1959-60 may not get too ample a chance to test this notion again in Congress before the presidential election. Scattered interim balloting won't offer much cue.

If it turns out that the citizenry wants new ideas and new faces from the Republicans as well as more energy, they may not discover this fact until too late—at the polls in 1960. By limiting their adjustment to the 1958 results to simply "more action," they may be taking a colossal risk.

Retiring New York Governor Harriman put Governor Rockefeller on the spot by giving some of his associates golden replicas of the state map. Rockefeller will be expected to top that, naturally, when he leaves office.

Experts say the social security system is financially sound—unless, of course, inflation removes the security and leaves it merely social.

ASSAULT ON DISEASE

A little fellow in a wheel chair released a cluster of balloons from the Empire State building's observation deck 86 floors above New York City the other day. His act signaled the opening of the National Foundation's annual March of Dimes financing campaign.

There was particular significance in the fact that the little boy who let go the balloons has suffered a spinal defect since his birth 11 years ago. For the National Foundation has broadened its activities; instead of focusing entirely on poliomyelitis, it will also push research on birth defects, virus diseases and central nervous system disorders.

The work on infantile paralysis has not yet come to an end. Funds still are required for treatment and rehabilitation of victims of the disease. Despite the fact that the Salk vaccine has been available for nearly three years, there also are new victims of polio each year.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
ANOTHER VIEW

Raymond M. Gooding of New York has a point of view about some things that is different from mine and here is a paragraph from a letter that he writes me:

"Latin Americans, due to bad influences inherited from their Spanish and Portuguese ancestors or caused by the mixture of races, topography and climate, have been going through a most difficult process in their efforts to obtain stability. However, their peoples are Christian, mostly Catholic and they are definitely aligned with the Western group of civilized countries. Were it not for the control of 180 million inhabitants and avoid their becoming communistic."

All countries have gone through difficulties to attain what Gooding calls stability and at this moment, very few are stable. But that is not the point at all. What makes the Latin American countries a serious problem is that they have difficulty in developing an orderly system for changing their officials and their disorders imperil our existence.

We have recently witnessed in Cuba an absurd situation from a political standpoint. A revolutionary movement developed in Cuba to get rid of Batista. Various groups of revolutionaries organized themselves to bring about his expulsion. They organized under Fidel Castro who operates a classical peasants' revolt led by intellectuals, the dramatic difference being the whisks and long hair. Batista ran away to the Dominican Republic which is becoming the sanctuary for Latin American dictators who have run away. Maybe Trujillo is running a boarding house for them. At any rate, Trujillo, Poron and Batista can spend evenings there counting their money.

The United States has been in existence since 1789 when George Washington was inaugurated as President. Since then we have had only one effort toward impeachment, a very orderly procedure, and one civil war. This country has had 33 Presidents and 86 Congresses. No President ever had to run away to a foreign country. No President ever walked off with the Treasury of the United States.

It is not a question as to whether we are better or worse than the Latin Americans; it is that the Anglo-Saxon peoples have a capacity for orderly government. Gooding's apologies leads him to attribute the Latin American failure to produce good government to the Spanish and Portuguese ancestry or to the mixture of races.

But certainly we have here, in the United States, as great a mixture of races as anywhere on the earth. Not all our Presidents were of Anglo-Saxon origin. Peoples who come from countries which find "stability" difficult, somehow, in a generation or two, settle down in the United States. Gooding makes the point that Latin Americans are Christian, mostly Catholic, and I presume, that for that reason they have not gone Communist. But what about the Hungarians, the Poles and the Czechs who have gone Communist and who were both Christian and Catholic?

Gooding has a second paragraph which is interesting:

"Your affirmation, 'Whether a nation's rulers are crooks or dictators does not matter to us as much as whether they (the rulers, not the people!) are pro or anti-Russian' is utterly irresponsible, to say the least. Absolute rulers could easily sell their countries to the Communists, for a price. Decent, democratic governments would not and could not do so against the will of the peoples, the free press, etc."

"... Sam Just Got Hit With a Hard Right ..."

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Organized labor's fear that automation in industry will create mass technological unemployment is now being given a new scare dimension. It is being called a "scientific revolution" or "the silent revolution."

AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Division recently held a two-day conference on labor and science here in Washington to alert its people on economic and social dangers said to be ahead.

What came out was principally an exercise in semantics, plus an hour-and-a-half harangue by I.U.D. President Walter Reuther at a luncheon audience of 500.

It all boiled down to the fact that the automation bugaboo has now been belated in so many conferences that it no longer arouses interest. Something new is all that is needed.

BEHIND ALL THIS publicity buildup, however, there are some noticeable changes going on in American life as a result of scientific development. Employment and unemployment patterns, business and production patterns are changing. This development can't be ignored or shrugged off.

What has been happening in declining agricultural employment along with increasing farm production during the last 20 years is now happening in the nonfarm economy.

The percentage of "white collar" workers in industry is up while the number of "blue collar" workers is down.

Since 1953, says AFL-CIO Director of Research Stanley Ruttenberg, the number of production workers has dropped two million. The number of nonproduction workers in industry has gone up a third of a million.

Workers who haven't been able to make the shift have had to go into the service trades or remain unemployed.

For example, Reuther told the conference that 13 per cent of the automobile workers are still unemployed although the recession is over and there is full production.

HIGHER TECHNOLOGY in manufacturing methods is held responsible for some of this unemployment. The demand for manpower with scientific or technological training is increasing. And machine operators are replacing craftsmen.

An International Association of Scientists spokesman says this situation comes up every time an aircraft or missile labor contract is negotiated. He gives this example:

At Boeing's Wichita plant, automatic riveting has been introduced. Fourteen riveters have been replaced. Two men operate the machine and punch holes in tapes that control its various operations. Clerical workers—punch card operators—are replacing skilled machinists.

Consequences of these trends in this so-called scientific revolution are sized up by Stanley Ruttenberg like this:

White collar jobs tend to pay less than skilled blue collar jobs. Declining wage payments could decrease wage-earner consumption. Older workers with higher skills and pay rates will be replaced by younger workers at lower pay.

Also, consolidation or relocation of plants abandoned for more efficient new production facilities could result in curtailing full employment and creating permanent unemployment of up to five per cent.

THIS CONDITION would also mean more distress areas in the country requiring government aid for rehabilitation.

What this condition seems to presage in future collective bargaining will be new union demands for such things as shorter work weeks at higher pay, bigger unemployment benefits for longer periods, earlier retirement for older workers, more severance pay for workers who lose their jobs when plants are closed, transfer of workers when plants are moved, broader educational programs to train workers for higher skills than their old jobs required.

Walter Reuther, in discussing the philosophy of these developments, called for creation of a science-labor foundation to study and solve their problems. He also proposed a new government Department of Science and Technology, of cabinet rank.

Planning by such agencies, he says, will close the gap between progress in the physical sciences and lack of progress in the social sciences.

A tag system for use in serving refreshments at Cantine Memorial Field after the parade was devised to eliminate confusion.

Favoring cooperation with the Hudson-Champlain Year of History plans, the possibility of entering the essay theme around the festival is being studied by Mrs. Sheehan, contest chairman.

P-TA Meeting Scheduled Jan. 21

"Reporting to Parents" will be the topic under consideration at the January 21 meeting of the Saugerties Parent-Teacher Association at 8 p. m. in the Main Street School auditorium.

The program has been planned in order to help parents gain a better understanding of the methods used by school officials when communicating concerning pupils. In order to promote discussion, the audience will be divided into four groups on the basis of grade-level of the children in which one is interested.

A general summary of the discussion in each group will be presented to the entire audience. The program has been planned by Mrs. Charles Steele and Miss Janet McCaig, co-chairmen.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day had an item in this column, from G. M. Wager, the Modena correspondent who asked: "Have you or any of your readers any information on the Ulster County, Bible Society—who presented Bibles to veterans of the Civil War in 1862?" Today I received a phone call from an old friend, Mrs. Charlie (Minnie) Neebe of 88 Tubby Street who is interested in this item. She told me she possesses a Bible given in Sept., 1862, to her grandfather, William Wesley Roe, who was killed by a sharpshooter at the Battle of Gettysburg. Her grandfather is buried at Gettysburg. A comrade was able to save the Bible and bring it home to Mrs. Neebe's grandmother. It was originally given to her grandfather by the Ulster County Bible Society. It is the New Testament and in back of the book are psalms. It is a small pocket edition and has very small print. Her grandmother's name was Anna Horton Roe.

Received a letter from Frank McMahon of Lawrenceville, Street. He writes that in the January issue of "Trains" magazine is an advertisement for home movies, one of which is entitled: "The Hold-Up of the Rocky Mountain Express." The advertisement further states that this movie was filmed along the Ulster and Delaware Railroad in 1905. Perhaps the readers remember when or how this movie was taken half a century ago. It is said that there were several men taken around here but I do not have details on them. I know it is very difficult to even get a photo of any old time scene. Bill Longyear used to have some fine photos and his wife made copies for some of my readers. Miss Short the Strand photographer, now retired has some good copies of boats like the Mary Powell.

During the recent newspaper strike, Miss Glennie Wager of Modena writes, some folks became interested in reading such old newspapers as the Dec. 22, 1885 World-Telegram and Sun.

Atomic Device Is Hailed as Boon To Man in Space

By FRANK E. CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—An atomic device with no moving parts and small enough to be tucked into a handbag may be the forerunner of means of providing the electricity to help man in space.

This was one result foreseen today of a new method to provide power over lengthy periods without the aid of batteries.

The new development, hailed by the Atomic Energy Commission as "highly significant," was announced Friday at the White House.

Col. Jack Armstrong, deputy chief of the AEC's aircraft reactor division, today predicted such batteryless power might also be used in the future to provide juice for instruments in large, unmanned satellites for long periods of time; furnish shelter heat and power for communications and weather instruments in remote areas like the arctic and antarctic; provide new types of navigational aid for air and sea traffic; and allow use of radio-controlled balloons which might forecast the development of hurricanes.

The device employs radioactive polonium 210 as a heat source and chemicals which convert the heat into electricity without any moving parts.

The AEC calls it SNAP 3 — short for system for nuclear auxiliary power.

The development at present consists of a five-pound device, 4 1/2 inches in diameter and 5 1/2 inches high — somewhat resembling a ship's barometer. Officials estimate the weight could be cut to three pounds.

The model cost $15,000. But AEC spokesmen say it probably could be turned out on a production basis for about $200 per unit.

Technicians for the AEC, which sponsored the development, said the device is the most efficient for its particular purpose known to exist anywhere—including the Soviet Union.

The device is designed primarily for use as a vastly longer lasting substitute for batteries in space satellites.

Police Board

Avenue, on Feb. 1. Amato's appointment is effective Jan. 19.

Others on List

Others on the list were Richard V. Cahill, of 435 Albany Avenue, one of three who tied for third place on the list and Robert A. Brown, of 218 Catherine Street, who was eighth on the list.

Amato was listed 25th, Radel 26th and Bouton 11th.

A dispute over the reported skipping of the name of Cahill from a first appointments were made was recently settled by a court ruling saying he had not been illegally passed.

Still in Session

The department now has its full quota of six sergeants and three lieutenants, and operates with a detective division composed of specially assigned patrolmen, instead of two regularly appointed detectives as formerly.

The police commissioners' meeting was still in session at Freeman press time.

Matteawan Inmate Still At-Large

Fishkill state police were still searching today for an inmate who escaped from Matteawan State Hospital, Beacon, Friday morning.

He is Edward Skinner, 37, white, five feet five inches tall, weighing 111 pounds, with grey eyes and brown hair.

He was reported to be wearing grey pants, black shoes, an army jacket and grey striped shirt at the time of his escape.

He was sentenced to Matteawan on a grand larceny conviction. Roadblocks were immediately set up by troopers in the Beacon area.

Useful Exchange

tween the Russian and English languages.

Not Ready for Conference

Mikoyan began by saying he supposed the newsmen had a "shower of questions" ready. But, he said, he would not be able to answer them because as all could see "I have my coat on all ready and am not prepared to hold a press conference."

"I can say we held an exchange of views on many matters of mutual interest. We did not conduct negotiations but tried to find the positions of our countries on many matters," Mikoyan said.

Not a Negotiation

"This was not a negotiation but a useful exchange of views. At the end, the President, the Secretary of State and we all came to the conclusion that the exchange was useful."

conveyed to the President greetings on behalf of Prime Minister Nikita Khrushchev, best wishes for his good health and success on the road to better relations between our two countries. The President thanked me and conveyed his warm greetings to our prime minister."

After the brief statement, Mikoyan broke off the session with reporters saying in English: "Thank you and good by." Eisenhower and Mikoyan presumably discussed the problems of Berlin, a divided Germany and disarmament.

Mikoyan arrived at the White House about two minutes before his 9 a. m. EST appointment time. He was met by Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, White House staff secretary. Soviet Ambassador Mikhail M. Mikoyan and translator Oleg Troynovsky accompanied Mikoyan.

Goodpastor was waiting outside, in subfreezing but sunny weather, to receive Mikoyan at the White House door. They shook hands and Mikoyan murmured a barely audible "good morning" in English.

Just "Good Morning"

As Mikoyan walked through the White House lobby he had no comment other than a good morning for dozens of newsmen gathered there for the meeting.

Before the meeting with Mikoyan the President got a half hour briefing from Secretary of State Dulles.

Dulles arrived at the White House as scores of uniformed policemen were deployed in the streets around the White House as a security precaution.

A squad of motorcycle policemen accompanied Mikoyan and his party on their short drive from the Soviet Embassy to the White House.

Climax of Long Tour

For Mikoyan the meeting was the climax of a spectacular tour which has taken him around the United States making public and private speeches, selling the Soviet "peace" line and pleading for trade and better relations, during the past two weeks.

If he brought any surprise proposal from Premier Nikita Khrushchev such as an outright bid for a summit meeting or concessions on German issues, U. S. officials agreed this was the time to submit it.

Net Income Affected

Watson's report stated that the lessening of business activity in the nation during 1958 had a marked effect upon the net incoming orders for the corporations major line of products— punched card and electronic data processing machines and systems. Net incoming orders for the full year 1958 for this type of equipment were only 53 per cent of those received in 1957. Because the company continues to have a backlog of unfilled orders although reduced since the beginning of 1958 a reduction in the rate of incoming orders is not immediately reflected in the financial results.

Bells to Protest Mikoyan's Visit

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The bells of scores of Florida Catholic churches will ring in protest Tuesday when Soviet Dep. Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan visits the state.

Archbishop Joseph Patrick Hurley of the St. Augustine diocese has called on all Catholics in his diocese to attend special masses Tuesday "on this mournful occasion when Mikoyan defiles the soil of Florida." The diocese covers most of the north and central portions of the state.

He recommended the masses be accompanied by the tolling of church bells.

Mikoyan and his party are scheduled to arrive Tuesday at Tampa to begin a two or three day visit to the state. They tentatively plan to tour citrus groves in Polk County and then go to Miami.

Five Cent Penalty On Insufficient Postage Suspended

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today that he has ordered indefinite suspension of the five-cent charge on "short paid" mail (mail with insufficient postage).

The extension of the deferment has been ordered as a result of congressional action designed to abolish the extra charge permanently by legislation.

Public Law Applies

Public Law 85-371, effective July 1, 1958, provided that a short paid charge in addition to the lawful postage should be collected from the addressee on delivery of mail not fully prepaid by the sender to cover the costs incurred. The five-cent charge was adopted to cover the costs.

However, under authority contained in the law, the Post Office Department, on August 1, suspended the five-cent charge pending further study. This suspension had been scheduled to terminate February 1, but will now be continued for an indefinite period, until a final congressional decision on the matter is forthcoming, Summerfield explained.

The five-cent short paid charge should not be confused with regular "postage due charges" for unpaid mail or mail bearing insufficient postage, Summerfield pointed out.

Due Charge Unchanged

Postage due charges are not involved in the present deferment. For example, an ordinary first class letter with a three cent stamp instead of the required four cent stamp is still subject to a penny postage due charge.

The possibility of congressional action was called to the postmaster general's attention by Representative Edward H. Rees of Kansas, a member of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, who suggested an indefinite postponement until Congress has had an opportunity to act on the matter.

Supervisors . . .

the Commissioner of Jurors," the opinion states.

Offered by McHugh

In accordance with that opinion, which it was stated was "informal and unofficial," Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R) of Shawangunk, majority leader, offered a resolution ratifying the December 13 action of the Jury Board in granting the leave of absence and also approving the appointment of Deputy County Clerk Ward E. Tongue to act as Commissioner of Jurors. This action on the part of the board of supervisors is designed to legalize the act and to thereby make legal any jury which may be drawn by Tongue as acting commissioner of jurors.

Prior to approval of the Jury Board action, the board adopted the resolution regarding leave of absence to county officials who do not come under the Civil Service regulations governing leaves of absence. The board of supervisors had heretofore adopted rules concerning sick leave and vacation time but had not included leaves of absence.

Supplements Sick Leave

The resolution offered by Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R), and approved by a 16 to 8 vote, supplements the sick leave and vacation regulations adopted on March 4, 1948, as follows:

Votes With GOP

Turck, (D) fourth ward supervisor, in voting with the Republican supervisors for the resolution said he was doing so because of the opinion of the attorney general and because he had "confidence in the Jury Board" and was satisfied that the appointment of Tongue by the Jury Board.

"As an American I feel a man is innocent until proved guilty," Turck said in reference to the request of Ashby for a leave of absence pending disposition of the impending indictment.

Gaffney moved to table the motion and it was seconded by Supervisor McCardle (D), 9th ward, in order that the Democratic supervisors could consult with counsel on the matter. Gaffney asked that the matter be deferred until Saturday night, Jan. 17, so the minority members could have legal advice and "vote intelligently."

When advised the county attorney was present and could advise the Democratic members, Gaffney said they wanted their own counsel's advice. The motion to table was lost and the vote proceeded on the original resolution of McHugh.

Caucus Delays Start

The session was delayed in opening by a long caucus of the Democratic members of the board. Supervisor Joseph Turck (D), fourth ward, said that the delay was due to the discussion on the leave of absence issue. Turck said he was the sole Democrat who did not oppose the resolution and he had objected to "making a political issue of the Ashby matter." The long caucus was due to his stand when "they were all against me, but I stuck my grounds" Turck said.

Claims Rejected

The following claims against the county were received and rejected on advice of County Attorney Arthur A. Davis Jr.

William Doines $150,000 damages arising out of an accident on Route 32 near the Ulster Landing Road. He claims the county was negligent in maintaining the road.

Isidore Levine and William Koplik, doing business as Ellenville Scrap Iron and Metal Company, $10,000 property damage negligent alteration of highway and also $10,000 property damage by Isidore and Abraham Levine for damage to the Levine junk yard.

Rose and Harry Levine $25,000 for negligent maintenance of county road in Town of Plattekill one-half mile west of Carpenter Gun Shop. Rose Levine asks $20,000 for personal injuries and Harry Gross $5,000 for property loss, medical bills and loss of services.

Eugene Emmich, $105,000 damages, $100,000 for personal injuries to his minor son and $5,000 loss of services and medical bills. He claims the county negligent as a steel bar protruding above the ground which injured the son.

Joseph Wilczek and Joseph Wilczek Jr., $37,500 for negligent construction and maintenance of the Canal Street bridge in Ellenville. He asked $100,000 for personal injuries to the son, $25,000 loss of services and $2,500 medical.

The board adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

South Bend Digs Out From Heavy Blanket of Snow

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—South Bend and most of St. Joseph County was crippled by a 14-inch blanket of snow today, but maintenance crews working all night had cleared most of the main roads.

U.S. 20 between South Bend and New Carlisle, eight miles west, was still closed to traffic, but all other main highways and city streets were reported "passable but treacherous."

Most of the snow was dumped on the area in less than three hours Friday. A light snow continued to fall most of the night, but did not add much to the depth. The heavy snowfall was whipped into snowdrifts by heavy winds, causing Mayors Edward F. Voorde of South Bend and Albert F. Doyle of adjoining Mishawaka to declare a state of emergency in their respective cities.

The St. Joseph County Army Reserve unit was called in and all available construction equipment was borrowed in the battle against the clogging snowdrifts.

Meetings Scheduled for Dairymen, Poultrymen

Meetings of interest to Ulster County dairymen and poultrymen were announced today by Robert D. Guzewich, associate county agricultural agent.

At 8 p. m. Tuesday Prof. Charlie Ostrander, Cornell Poultry Department, will discuss pullets and chick brooding at the Accord School.

At 8 p. m. Thursday, Jan. 22, Prof. Joseph Beardon of the Cornell Animal Husbandry Department will speak on "Maintenance and Care of the Herd."

The session will include a discussion on herd replacements, surplus cattle, selling and buying preferences — "certainly important points now with the extreme shortage of dairy replacements and the resulting very high cattle prices," Guzewich said.

Sliding Doors Are Easily Made

It's easy to make sliding doors of hardboard for wall cabinets.

Cut two panels of hardboard for the doors and drill a finger hole in each to facilitate sliding. You can purchase metal finger pulls if you like.

Cut grooves for the doors to slide in, or build up grooves using strips of quarter-round on either side of the doors, with a strip of 1/4-by-1/2 stock tacked down to divide them. The top groove should be slightly more than twice the depth of the bottom groove to make the doors removable.

You also can get pre-formed sliding door tracks made of aluminum.

Paint the doors on one side and cover the other with wallpaper that blends with the decor of the room. You can then change about from painted to papered doors on a moment's notice.

Dutch Style Door Often Ideal for Kitchen Use

A Dutch-style door used inside the house can be the answer to many problems and inconveniences, especially when there are children around.

A "Dutch" door as the entrance to a small child's room, is one of the most popular uses. When the bottom half is closed, the toddler is kept happily confined without being completely shut out from the rest of the family.

A Dutch door of this type is available in stock from building material dealers, or can be made from a stock panel door sawed in half.

As a kitchen door, the Dutch-style is ideal, since the top half can be left open for ventilation, while the bottom half keeps children and pets out.

Cracks, Nail Holes

Putty is used to glaze wood or metal sash, or to fill nail holes and cracks in wood. High grade putty for wood sash is a stiff mixture of pure chalk whiting and linseed oil to which small amounts of thinner and dryer are sometimes added. Some craftsmen add 5 or 10 per cent of paste white lead to putty to obtain a harder composition.

'El Rancho'... Ranch House

Rms. Five
Bedrooms Two
Closets Eight
Cubage: House 19,300 ft.
Garage 5,110 ft.
Dimensions 39' x 26'

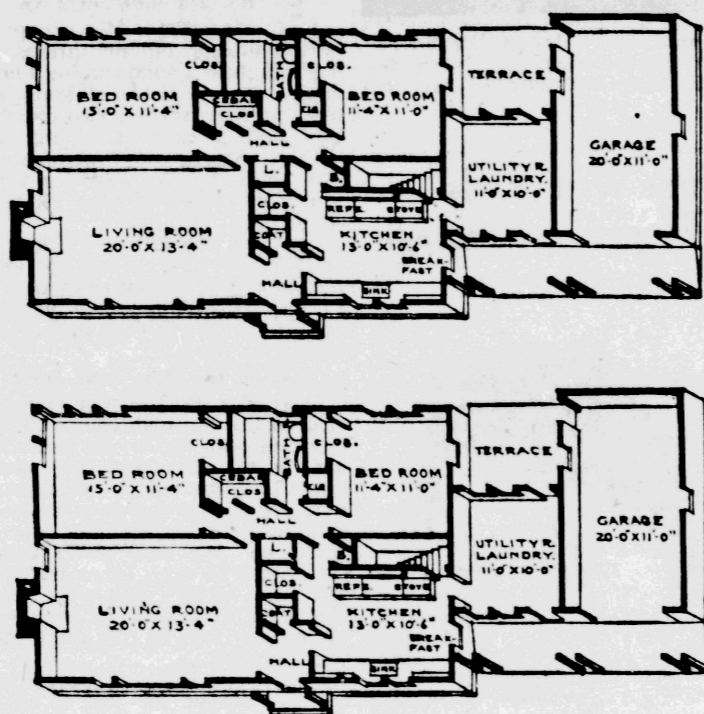

As you would expect of a house with such a name, "The El Rancho," today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service, is a beautiful modern ranch house.

Straight simple lines give "The El Rancho" an informal charm that makes this house especially adaptable to a suburban or rural location. Simple landscaping is best suited to the house, but, if you so desire, you can give full vent to your desire for a flower and vegetable garden in the rear of the house.

To most effectively enhance the exterior appearance of "The El Rancho" have the house set back a good distance from the road. The house proper measures 39'x26'; total length, including the attached garage, is 61'. Hence, at least an 85 foot lot would be required. Cubage of the house is 19,300 feet; cubage of the garage is 5,110 feet.

Living and work centers, the kitchen and living room, are located in the front of "The El Rancho" so that the sleeping quarters can be placed in the rear part of the house. Included in the kitchen is a good sized breakfast nook which will prove popular with the family for many meals and for between-meal snacks as well.

Designed to double as a dining room, the spacious living room is well planned for both uses. Plenty of light and ventilation is provided by the large picture window and two smaller windows in the front wall and also by the regular window in the left wall. The fireplace is a welcome feature from both a practical and decorative standpoint.

Both bedrooms are well lighted and ventilated; each boasts an unusually spacious closet.

Throughout "The El Rancho" there is a generous amount of centrally located closets so that storage should present no problem to the family living in this ranch house. The housewife will especially appreciate the extra sized cedar closet and the good sized linen closet.

Easy access is provided to both the front yard and the back terrace from the first floor utility room or laundry. Measuring 11'x10' this room is very well lighted by four windows and is sufficiently large to easily accommodate all your home laundry equipment.

Protected entrance to the garage is provided from both the front porchway and from the back terrace. The one-car garage contains ample space for overhead storage of screens, etc.

Since the laundry is located on the first floor of "The El Rancho" the only required installation in the basement is the heating equipment. This should be placed under the living room.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director Veterans' Service Agency, and Charles L. Culver, state veterans counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and other dependents.

Pension—A new Annual Income Questionnaire, VA Form 21-6749, will be used for reporting the annual income of living veterans and widows and children receiving death pensions. This new questionnaire form is of a punched card type and replaces VA VB Forms 8-59 and 8-685 annual income questionnaire formerly sent to veterans and widows receiving pension benefits. The new VA Form 21-6749 and VA Form 21-6749a, "Instructions for Completing Annual Income Questionnaire," are distributed in most instances for the 1958 income period in the same envelope as the December pension checks. It is important that the VA Form 21-6749 be completed and returned within 30 days. This form being a punched card will be processed by tabulating machines. Damage to the punch card and the use of staples, paper clips or exposure to moisture should be avoided. Anyone who loses an annual income questionnaire card may obtain a replacement from the office which mailed the card to the pensioner. Assistance in completing annual income questionnaires may be obtained from this agency.

Insurance—An existing RS National Service Life Insurance policy may be converted to a permanent NSLI plan any time in the future. The RS policy was issued to veterans with Korean service. No RS policies have been issued since January 1, 1957. The six permanent plans to which an RS policy may be converted have cash, loan, paid up, and extended term insurance values. The six permanent plans available are ordinary life, 20 payment life, 30 payment life, 20 year endowment, endowment at age 60 and endowment at age 65. Policies issued on the new premium rate basis will be numbered with a W prefix. Additional information, premium rates and conversion forms may be obtained from this agency.

Annuities—Annual Affidavit Blind Veterans Annuity forms are being sent to New York State veterans in receipt of a blind annuity and to the widows of deceased blind veterans annuitants. These forms must be completed and returned to the Division of Military and Naval Affairs, Fiscal Section, 112 State Street, Albany 7, New York, by fore January 20, 1959, to insure the prompt payment of the blind annuity under the NYS military law for the calendar year 1959.

Armed Forces—All aliens including members of the U. S. Armed Forces in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam or the Virgin Islands and aliens who accompany such service personnel must report their addresses to the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service during January. An address report Form I-53 may be obtained from the nearest post office or I and N Service office. Aliens in this category who are serving in the U. S. Army overseas must report their addresses within 10 days after returning to the U. S. or any of its possessions noted above.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency located at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y.

For Old Wallpaper

Removing old wallpaper is easy if you use a paint roller. Dip the roller in warm water and run it up the wall section by section, peeling off the paper before it can dry. The roller wets the paper evenly and without the dripping of a cloth or sponge.

Wood Combination Doors, Windows

Modern combination wood doors and windows have eliminated the back-breaking labor and danger of seasonal changes. These all-season combinations consist of a sturdy ponderosa pine frame that stays in place all year round, with lightweight glass and screen inserts that are changed according to the season. The storm and screen panels are inserted from inside the house. Flip the little catches in the frame and it's done, with no precarious leaning out the window or balancing on 20-foot ladders.

Attend to Sub Base in Patio Planning

If you're planning a terrace or patio with a colorful surface, particular attention should be given to the sub-base for the concrete slab. A good sub-base will prevent settling of the slab and permit good drainage. Expansion joints in the slab itself should be spaced every 20 to 40 feet, and should be used along Americans reach for the telephone on the average of 240 million times a day.

Based on Bell System studies that entailed 4,000 interviews in 63 cities throughout the country, here are the preferred home locations for phones.

In a one-story house, the most popular spots are the kitchen, a location between dining and living areas, and the master bedroom.

On the second floor of a two-story house, the master bedroom is the most popular place.

AAUW Hears Panel On Pitfalls Seen In Advertising

The regular monthly meeting of the American Association of University Women was held in the library of the George Washington School on Tuesday and a discussion of advertising, public relations and propaganda was heard.

The discussion was led by Mrs. Robert Bartlett of the AAUW Mass Media Study Group. Topic question was "Are You Being Manipulated?"

Mrs. Bartlett opened with a discussion of the general history and gradual growth of three major forms of persuasion—advertising, public relations and propaganda. Advertising was defined as that which sells a product, public relations sells the group and propaganda is a process used to inculcate ideas without utilizing rational thought.

Mrs. Bartlett concluded that the rapid growth of mass media has given new dimension to these persuaders until it is imperative that we recognize their force in all phases of life.

The question was then raised by Mrs. Floyd Wilson, whether we as consumers are ever made aware of the many misleading bits of information used or implied by some advertisements in selling consumer goods. Mention was made of the chemicals added to breads, toothpastes, detergents, citrus fruit dyes, and some used to fatten poultry. Opinions of some medical authorities were cited who believed that these chemicals in cumulative amounts might be very harmful to the individual. All this leading to the conclusion that it might be well for consumers to seriously consider ways of strengthening or enforcing the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Mrs. James Hamlin followed with evidence that we as citizens are also being persuaded and manipulated by the same general methods of advertising, both to convince us to vote and think in certain ways and also to pattern ourselves to fit into certain "team positions" set up by some corporations and industries for their employees. Ending with the warning that a serious offense is committed if the depth manipulators are allowed to invade an individual's privacy of mind.

In recent years, advertising and public relations have moved into the general realm of propaganda by using methods of psychology. This has been intensified with the introduction of motivational research, claimed Mrs. Fred Brammer. She continued by indicating that psychological methods were employed to determine the basic needs of individuals and that then these needs are exploited by the use of suggestion, innuendo, implication and indirect statement. The implication of this mass persuasion when used on children was explored and the question asked "do we want our children to be so manipulated until they are little more than future consumers?" And actually do we like to be so manipulated?

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The way John Compton talks, you'd expect to find him in a Western or maybe "The Real McCoys." Here's how he describes how he came to Hollywood:

"Well, sir, I was out on a ridge in the moonlight with this purty girl down in Tennessee. She looks up at me and says, 'John, yer just handsome enough to be a movie star.' That was enough for me. The next day I told my mammy and pappy goodbye and started for Hollywood."

No Cowpoke Though
No cowpoke or hillbilly is Compton in the TV world. He plays the lead in "The D.A.'s Man," NBC's new Saturday night crime show produced by Jack Webb. Rangy, squarely built Compton is the wily undercover agent who adopts a variety of guises to ferret out criminals for a New York district attorney.

John tells a colorful story. But some of the things he says appear to be true.

He did come to Hollywood 15 years ago in search of the fortune which is only now materializing.

He had a contract at Warner Brothers for a couple of years, then the film depression struck and he was back on the streets again. But he persisted and lately had been doing well in TV films. He tried out for "The D.A.'s Man," but figured he didn't have a chance because he could never be mistaken for a New Yorker.

He figured without Jack Webb. The producer saw some film on Compton, had a couple of chats with him and ordered him signed. The actor told of the clincher, and you'll have to figure if it's legend or not.

It seems that Compton keeps bees. He has five hives of them at his home in the Hollywood hills.

"The morning I was to see Webb, I was cleaning out a hive of unfriendly ones," he said.

"They stung me all over the arms about 200 times. I didn't even have time to take out the stingers. Webb asked me what they were and I told him. He said, 'If you can take that, you can take anything.'"

IN A WALK-UP APARTMENT

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I live on the third floor of a large apartment house. It is a walk-up apartment. When we have visitors they ring the bell in the lobby before coming upstairs. I would like to know if I should then open the door to our apartment and wait at the open door to greet them, or do I wait until they arrive outside our door and knock, before opening it?

Answer: Unless you are occupied entertaining other visitors who have already arrived, it is more cordial to greet those coming to see you at your opened door.

Inviting a Family of Five

Dear Mrs. Post: We are preparing to send out invitations to our daughter's forthcoming marriage. On our list is a family of five—mother, father, two daughters and a son, all living together. Should each member of this adult family receive a separate invitation, or may all five be included on one?

Answer: The father and mother (Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So) and the daughters below the parents (The Misses So-and-So) on one envelope. A separate invitation is sent to the son.

Inviting the Boy Next Door

Dear Mrs. Post: I will soon be celebrating my eighteenth birthday and plan on having a birthday party. I would like very much to invite the boy who lives next door to us to this party, but would like your opinion before doing so. We have never been introduced to each other but we do say "Hello" whenever we meet and he seems very friendly. My mother says he will think me very forward.

Answer: I think it would be entirely proper for you to say, "I am giving a party on Saturday and I would like to have you come to it." It is certainly not very personal to invite him to a party.

Should the tissue papers covering the engraving on wedding invitations be removed before mailing? This and other information will be found in leaflet E-10, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements." Newspaper Women Take Plane Travel In Their Stride

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fasten your seat belts, please, and observe the no-smoking signs. We're off on a modern fashion show, aboard a jet plane, 30,000 feet up.

The passengers' two planeloads of them—are 200 members of the national fashion press, in New York this week for the spring showings of New York designers. They've already covered eight fashion shows during the day. Now they're embarking to see another, this time all wool and all up in the air.

The fashions are superb, the models tired but beautiful. But let's take a look at the passengers.

There's Betty Milburn, women's editor of the Tucson Daily Citizen, who would rather fly her own plane than eat, or even dance. She and her husband, who works on the same paper, want a plane they can park in their back yard.

Then there's Ivy Coffee, women's editor of the Oklahoma City Times. Oklahoma City, a tall, breezy blonde who thinks there's no business like newspaper business, and who runs a staff of news, turning out a women's section of three to four pages daily, making over the women's pages for each of the paper's five editions.

Today's newswomen take to the air in more ways than one. For instance, there's Mildred Alexander, news director of TV and radio station WTAR in Norfolk, Va., and president of the Virginia Assn. of Associated Press Broadcasters. Her medium is the air instead of the printed page, but she is a newspaperwoman at heart, and her audience would challenge the circulation of some of the country's biggest papers.

Edrie Van Dore is assistant managing editor and women's editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer. She heads a staff of eight women and one man, works about 18 hours a day, travels to Europe, South America or the West Coast as casually as most people take a Sunday drive, and enjoys every minute of it.

Meta Blackwell, Sunday editor of the San Bernardino (Calif.) Sun-Telegram, has held practically every job on the paper, including those of city editor and women's editor. Now the paper has a man editing the women's pages, but Meta continues to cover fashions—in New York, Los Angeles, Paris or wherever they may be.

Betty Peach does fashions and features for the San Diego Evening Tribune, and also gets around. She was in New Guinea with the Red Cross during World War II, refers to her husband simply as "Peach," has a home, a yard and a garden in San Diego and thinks life is simply peachy.

Those are a few of the modern feminine press. They've changed a lot since the days of Nellie Bly.

A director of the Mid-Hudson chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, Blemker earned a bachelor of industrial engineering degree at Georgia Technological Institute. A veteran of three years service with the U. S. Navy, he is a deacon at Kingston's Old Dutch Church.

Three Get $14,000 In Market Stickup

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Tellalian, manager of an upper east side supermarket was just setting the time clock on the door Friday night to close for the day when a gunman shouldered his way into store.

"Get into the back of the store and nobody will get hurt," the gunman said. Two henchmen moved in behind him.

Tellalian led the trio past two clerks into a rear office where the store's safe is kept.

"Open it," the bandit leader growled.

Tellalian, understandably nervous, fumbled at the dials. "Take it easy," the gunman said, "take your time."

After 10 minutes, the manager was calm enough to work the combination.

The safe contained $14,000 in coins and $10,000 in bills. Appropriating two cardboard cartons, the thieves dumped the money in them — warned the employees not to follow — and walked out with the loot.

Bay Shore Man Heads Physical 'Ed' Group

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Kenneth Sprague of Bay Shore, L. I., is the new president of the New York State Directors Assn. for Physical Education and Recreation.

Sprague was elected Friday at the association's one-day meeting here.

Henry Vetter of Carthage was elected vice president and Chester Bollier of Kenmore was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The directors met in conjunction with the convention of the State Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a physical education teachers' group.

Tag and Chart Valves

Water damage caused by a plumbing leak or other accident can be kept to a minimum if all members of the household are familiar with the location of the shut-off valves. The inside of a closet door is a convenient place to hang a chart showing the location of the valves. Baggage tags should be attached to each valve indicating its purpose.

Goldberg Speech Stirs Sharp Debate at Town Hall Meeting

Attorney Raps McGrath Letter

Justice of the Peace Dixon McGrath has "in effect assassinated the characters of officials of the Town of Woodstock without cause or proof" Attorney Maurice Goldberg of Wittenberg charged in an explosive speech at the Town Board meeting Thursday night.

The largest crowd to attend a town board meeting in several months saw Goldberg's incisive address turn a routine board meeting into one of the most dramatic public forums in the history of the township.

After sharply criticizing McGrath for submitting to area newspapers an article which the attorney said "was full of innuendoes, half truths and actual inaccuracies of fact," Goldberg begged Justice McGrath, the lone Democratic member of the five-man board, to "rise and withdraw his inflammatory article which, in effect, assassinated the characters, without cause or proof of officials of the town who have given so many years of long and continued service to the people of their community."

Attorney Goldberg was alluding to a press release Justice McGrath issued early in January in which he claimed irregularities in the processing of bids for town fuel oil and road oil.

McGrath Rebuttal

Rising to defend himself after Goldberg had talked for more than 30 minutes in dramatic court-room style, Justice McGrath flatly refused to retract any statements he made in the letter to the press beyond acknowledging that he had miscalculated the lapse of time between the advertising of the bids in the official town newspaper and the deadline. He said he was under the impression there were only five days when there were actually 12.

"My only motive in inquiring about highway expenditures is to see if three-quarters of our town taxes are being spent with a thought to possible savings," said McGrath after a faltering start in which his delivery was in sharp contrast to the supercharged style employed by attorney Goldberg.

"I have been asked by the supervisor and superintendent of highways to come to them for answers to my questions," McGrath added. "Yet, when I repeatedly asked if there were more than one gasoline bid, was wrongly allowed to think the answer was no, I had to bring this to the attention of the taxpayers."

McGrath then went on to say that "if we spend as much as $2,000 for gasoline this year and accept the low bid, the savings will virtually pay, in one year for a new tank and pump."

"As long as the people of Woodstock wish their representative to investigate possible savings, I shall keep on asking questions—always with the hope of receiving accurate answers," he concluded.

Large Attendance

There was never any question the meeting would attract a large outpouring of taxpayers since it was announced at the recent Republican meeting that McGrath's allegations in the letter would be answered point by point at the next board meeting. Attorney Goldberg came to the meeting heavily armed with newspaper clippings, excerpts from the town board minutes and other material.

After introducing himself as a taxpayer and emphasizing that he was speaking as a private citizen, the attorney said in his opening remarks that what he was about to say was "of such tremendous importance and so material to the welfare of the community" that he desired to have his remarks recorded by a stenographer. He then introduced Mrs. Warren Marr of West Hurley, who moved from an audience chair to the main table to record the speech.

Attorney Goldberg also quoted from Canon 5 of the Canon of Judicial Ethics of the New York State Bar Association and Canon 20 of the Canons of Professional Ethics of the New York State Bar Association in his preliminary remarks. Canon No. 5 reads in part . . . "a judge should be temperate, attentive, patient, impartial . . . diligent in endeavoring to ascertain the facts." Canon No. 20 which relates to public life says: "Newspaper publications by a lawyer as to pending or anticipated litigation may interfere with a fair trial in the courts and otherwise prejudice the due administration of justice. Generally, they are to be condemned."

Geertsema Newsletter

Goldberg then referred to a newsletter Council Tobie Geertsema (Ind.) released on Nov. 1, 1958, in the pre-election campaign in which she said of McGrath: "I believe his twin vocations of law minister and teacher-principal would make it impossible for him to lose sight of lofty objectives or to get bogged down in trivialities. I believe . . . that he has moral standards."

"I had expected under these circumstances from him deliverance, especially now as a judge and official member of the Town Board—deliberation, temperance, moderation and above all a constructive approach to his duties and obligations, based on actual facts . . . found after due investigations," said Goldberg.

The attorney then went on to say that as he re-read and digested the McGrath letter, "an impression was made upon me that here is an article accusing officially-elected officers of Woodstock, and especially Mr. Cashdollar of 'irregularities' in office and 'fake' information" which reflected upon their official conduct.

"I was amazed after reading and re-reading the article," continued Goldberg, "to find that I could not understand it, that it was full of innuendoes, half-truths and, as I later found out, actual inaccuracies of fact. I decided to investigate the conclusory charges in this demagogic letter released to all the newspapers in the area at the beginning of January 1958 by Justice of the Peace McGrath to square my own conscience and find out if there were any substance to these charges."

Challenges Dates

"I found No. 1," Goldberg added, "that the advertisements for bids did not appear in the official legal newspaper therefore during the Thanksgiving week, but actually on Thursday, Nov. 20, 1958, which was one week before Thanksgiving Day and 10 days before the completion of the 'Thanksgiving Day weekend.'"

"This occurred not five days before the 12 deadline as alleged, but 10 days, although the law only requires five days. I was interested in the minutes of the Town Board meeting of Dec. 18, 1958, at which time the Amos Post fuel oil bid was accepted to see what happened at the meeting," Mr. Goldberg then read from the minutes.

The attorney expressed himself as being amazed to find out that every bid, correctly submitted or not, including every bid mentioned by Justice McGrath, was submitted to the Town Board for consideration and deliberation. And that reading from the minutes, "the motion was made by Councilman Geertsema and seconded by Justice McGrath that the bid of Amos Post, Inc. be accepted by the Town Board. Vote 5 ayes 0 nays."

"Moreover," continued attorney Goldberg, "two additional special meetings of the Town Board were thereafter officially held before publication of Justice McGrath's letter, and a search of the minutes failed to disclose any mention by McGrath, who was present at both of the said meetings, in any way indicating or alleging that the Amos Post fuel bid had been irregular or had been irregularly submitted or should be re-opened for consideration."

"Keeping in mind the canon of ethics previously referred to, it was therefore a matter of great shock to me as a practicing attorney to find out that, after actively participating in the granting of the Amos Post bid and making no complaint to the Town Board subsequently regarding the same at two separate meetings, Mr. McGrath suddenly sent in this confusing, vague and conclusory letter to all the newspapers, which can only be construed as casting aspersions upon the official conduct of his fellow members of the Town Board, who knew nothing about the thoughts in his mind during all that time."

While stating that he was not there to defend Superintendent of Highways Cashdollar's conduct as an independently elected official of the town, Mr. Goldberg pointed out that in regard to bids for gasoline, he had discovered a fact that Mr. Cashdollar, while advertising for bids, has not accepted and to date, but on the other hand has been present at every meeting since December with books and records ready to answer questions which any member of the Town Board put to him; that he has discussed these matters at length with Justice McGrath and that, in fact, he has left his telephone number with the judge, inviting him to confer with Mr. Cashdollar at any and all times regarding the details of his office, including gasoline and road oil matters, before the superintendent of highways would actually give out the contracts. Furthermore, said Goldberg, in regard to road oil, Mr. Cashdollar has not even advertised for bids, much less accepting any contracts.

The Summation

In a sweeping summation, Goldberg explained to Judge McGrath that he was "young and inexperienced and not an attorney" and quoting from the Biblical proverb: "Devise not evil against thy neighbor, seeing he dwelleth securely by thee" and

"a wrathful man stirreth up discord."

Mr. Goldberg begged Justice McGrath to rise and withdraw his inflammatory article which, in effect, assassinated the characters, without cause or proof, of officials of the town who have given so many years of long and continued service to the people of their community.

Mr. Goldberg finished with the remark, again from the proverb: "He that troubleth his own house, shall inherit the wind. And he warned that if McGrath did not take steps to "rectify the injustice he has committed against these persons, Mr. Goldberg and hundreds of others like him would work night and day until next November to see to it that 'he that troubleth his own official house' shall inherit his 'political' wind."

Fitzsimmons Speaks

Answering Justice McGrath's assertion that the first meeting which he attended he was brought in "cold" and had never seen the letters or bids, Supervisor Joseph Fitzsimmons, who is chairman of the board, said: "The matter is the matter is that this happened to be his very first official Town Board meeting. Previous to the meeting, I went over with the board members each and every part of the agenda, including the bids and letters and I explained that, although three were not in order, we would go over all of them."

"At the time the meeting was to convene at 8 o'clock," Fitzsimmons explained, "Dixon McGrath appeared at the Town Clerk's office with apologies for being tardy for the meeting. I volunteered to go back into the Town Clerk's office with him and painstakingly reviewed each and every part of the agenda, including the bids and letters, and he quite agreed that there was no other alternative than to consider the one bid, considering the service and furnishing of the tank."

The supervisor further explained: "I put that to him in the form of a question and he agreed that it was correct. I also asked him if it weren't true that at any time he had any questions pertaining to the town government, I would be willing to answer and help him or assist him in any way possible. He quite agreed."

"Then I asked him if, in his opinion," Fitzsimmons added, "it was fair a few days later to issue a press release, refuting all these previous agreements between us and I also asked him if he knew of anything I could do to be more fair. And at that time I told him that it was my opinion the board was very cooperative with him, but that he was not cooperative nor fair with the board."

Abram F. Molyneux, legal advisor to the Town Board and final speaker on the two-hour program, said he saw no objection to letter writing; said it was the right of every citizen, sometime the duty, to express opinions on town matters. He strongly deplored however, unfavorable and unfair criticism of town officials as the result of irresponsible statements that might be printed in such letters. He also said he had strong misgivings about letters to the press by town officials who should have the good of the town at heart.

"I sincerely hope," said Molyneux, "that the energies and enthusiasm displayed here tonight might be more constructively harnessed to create future assets and to help achieve the objectives we are all striving for."

Swim Bet Costs Man His Life

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—To win a $100 bet, Bolivar Clark, 36, stripped to his shorts and shoes Friday and attempted to swim the Niagara River.

Police said he disappeared in the cold waters and was presumed drowned.

A friend told him he and Clark made the bet early in the afternoon while they were drinking in a tavern. A third man drove them to the riverside where, he said, they tried to talk Clark out of the stunt.

But Clark, determined to make the half-mile swim, plunged in. The U. S. Coast Guard called off a search for him after two hours when a blinding snowsquall reduced visibility to zero.

Clark was a millwright in an automobile plant and lived in the suburban town of Tonawanda.

Balcony Scene Winds Up in Orchestra

NEW YORK (AP) — Two men played a balcony scene in a Times Square movie theater, but it wasn't from Romeo and Juliet. One tossed the other over a railing into the orchestra section.

The victim was Charles Wright, 31, of Manhattan, who landed in an aisle 20 feet below. He was treated for cuts and bruises at a hospital and released.

Police said a slugging match broke out between Wright, who is unemployed, and an unidentified Negro sitting several rows behind him Friday after an argument.

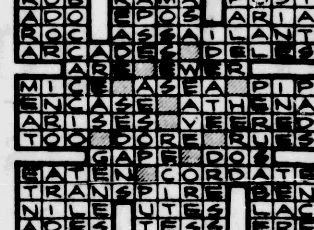

Name-calling preceded the punching. The other man wrestled Wright to the balcony railing, picked him up and tossed him into the orchestra.

The assailant then left the theatre.

Raps Segregationists

Keating Favors
16 Months More
Of CR Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) today proposed a 16-month extension of the Civil Rights Commission and contended that segregationists have attempted to obstruct its work.

Joining him in offering a bill to give the commission until Jan. 2, 1961 to submit its final report and recommendations to Congress were Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), John S. Cooper (R-Ky), Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) and Hugh Scott (R-Pa.).

Under the 1957 Civil Rights Act which created it, the commission is required to wind up its work in early September.

The group was set up to investigate sworn complaints of violations of voting rights and make a study of laws and practices relating to civil rights generally.

President Eisenhower recently said that he will ask Congress to extend the commission's life.

Keating said in a statement that the defiance encountered by the commission in Alabama in seeking voter registration records "was only the latest example of the attempt by segregationists to obstruct its work."

Kingston High Nips Arlington High, 71-69, on Uhl's Basket

Pratt Is Star for KHS, SaVino Leads Losers

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Sharp shooter Joe Uhl bucketed a jump shot from the left side of the foul circle with only four seconds left to play last night at the Arlington High School court to give Kingston a 71-69 triumph over the home side in one of the wildest contests ever staged at the Dutchess County gym.

The final basket of the night ended a game that had everything. There was torrid scoring by both clubs, a near free-for-all in the closing stages of the contest, a great relief job by substitute Harry Pratt of Kingston and one of the finest shooting exhibitions ever staged by little Mike SaVino of Arlington. Add Mike together and you can imagine what kind of a classic was played.

Both sides lost key men during crucial stages of the tilt. Eddie Cavo, Arlington's rugged rebounder, fouled out with two minutes left to play in the first half. His presence was sorely needed by Coach Fritz Jordan and his boys. John Kelly, Kingston's all-around star, was banished from the game on five personals with 4:15 remaining in the contest. He was missed during those final hectic moments.

Torrid Shooting
The first half ended with the home club on the front end of a 41-40 margin as both teams shot for a phenomenal percentage from the floor. The lead saw-sawed back and forth and two foul shots by Tom Denning of AHS just before the halftime buzzer gave the Maroon players their one point margin.

Uhl was the big gun for Kingston in the first half. He had seven field goals and a pair of foul shots for 18 points. SaVino made 13 of Arlington's markers and captain Jerry Anderson added 10 to keep abreast of the visitors.

A layup by guard Charley Williams of Kingston in the opening minute of the third quarter pushed the Maroon players ahead by a point and they proceeded from there to try and sit on the lead and force Arlington from its zone defense. The strategy backfired as Anderson stole a pass and Mike Moyer converted a lead toss into a basket. Alex Credle followed with a layup to shove AHS ahead, 45-42.

Pratt then made his first crucial bucket, a jump from the foul line to slice the margin to a point. After SaVino hit for the home side, Hobbie Armstrong and Anderson exchanged ducies to keep Arlington ahead by three points with two minutes left to play in the quarter.

Mickey Shines
SaVino tried his best to win the contest by himself. After Pratt scored, with a layup for Kingston, Mickey swished a one-hander from the side and, then followed a basket by Williams with another one-hander from the same spot. A tap by Armstrong and Bobbie Short's driving layup just before the time ran out shoved Kingston ahead, 55-54, at the end of the quarter.

The fourth stanza was a story in itself. The clubs were tied on five different occasions. Pratt rebounded knotted the count at 63-63 with three minutes left and those were hectic moments, to say the least. After Short canned a jump for the Maroon, Credle made a layup and then SaVino hit with a tap to shove AHS into a 67-65 margin. A jump shot by Anderson made the scoreboard read, 69-65, with 1:45 remaining.

Uhl, who was blanked most of the second half by a shifting AHS zone defense, then made a pressurized basket to cut the home side's advantage to 69-67, with 1:25 to play.

Brief Fracas
A few seconds later, Referee John Lee called a jump ball. In the confusion, the players didn't hear the whistle and they continued fighting for the ball on the floor. Several punches were thrown and both benches were emptied as the players joined in the fracas. When peace was restored, Kingston won the jump and Short canned a jump shot with 19 seconds to play. Just before the excitement, Moyer missed a foul shot on the one and one situation.

With the score knotted, Arlington fired a shot and Pratt came down with the rebound with 15 seconds left to play. A time out was called and when play was resumed, the ball was passed back and forth and finally, to Uhl. He was successful and the Kingston players went home happy.

The Blonde Bomber finished with 20 points to snare scoring honors for the Maroon five. Williams made 16 and Pratt who played his finest game, added 12. He and Armstrong were superb on the backboards.

SaVino, at 5-6, the smallest player on the court, scored 23 points for Arlington. He had 10 field goals from all angles of the gym in a shiny performance. He is one of the finest shooters seen on a scholastic court this season. Anderson, the backbone of the club, had 19 markers and big Credle added 15.

It was a good show and the repeat at Kingston should be worth watching.

Atkinson Quits Racing Game

NEW YORK (AP)—Racing bid a sad adieu today to Ted Atkinson.

Atkinson, 42, one of the world's top jockeys, retired from the saddle Friday on the advice of his physician because of a chronic sacroiliac condition.

Atkinson rode 3,795 winners during his 21-year career for total purse earnings of $17,499,360, but it was his rides in claiming races that endeared him to the rank and file.

A chap didn't have to figure out past performances when Ted was up in the cheap races, just go up to the window and bet on Atkinson's mount. More times than not Ted booted home nice priced winners and sent his followers home happy.

Scramble for No. 1 Position Among Colleges Continues

Associated Press Sports Writer
The scrambling for college basketball's No. 1 position goes into a mid-season showdown today with five of the elite readying a challenge to North Carolina State's shaky grip on the top spot.

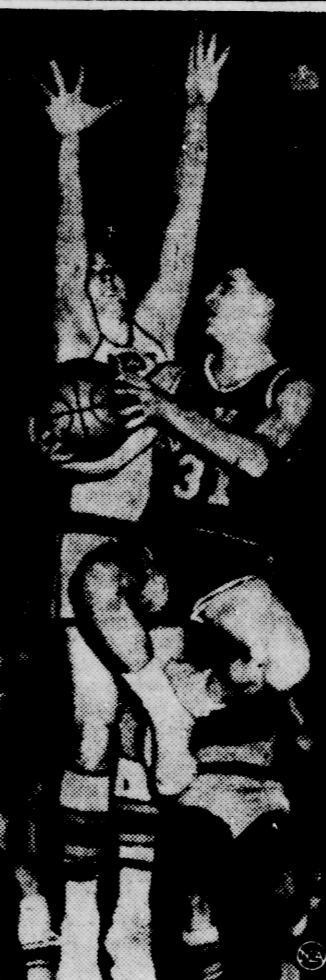

The Wolfpack from Raleigh, N.C., at home against rough Tennessee.

Tonight, fourth-rated Kansas State (12-1) plays at Missouri and fifth-ranked Auburn (10-0) seeks its 22nd straight victory over a two-year span against Alabama at Montgomery.

Sixth-ranked Cincinnati (9-2) plays at Drake, and St. John's, No. 9, goes for an 11-1 record at Philadelphia's Palestra against St. Joseph's (Pa.).

Bradley, No. 7, made its bid Friday night with a romping 92-73 victory over Toledo for its 11th triumph in 13 tries.

Along with North Carolina, the two others of the top ten—eighth-ranked Michigan State and West Virginia, No. 10, are, idle.

Several scholastic cage tilts were snowed out last night as the first big storm of the season played havoc on the roads and forced several schools to postpone their contests early.

In the DUSO circuit, the Poughkeepsie at Port Jervis game was postponed after the Pioneer bus failed to climb a hill outside Newburgh. The other teams in the league played.

Two games were snowed out in the UCAL with only Onteora at Highland being played. Those postponed were New Paltz at Ronau and Marlboro at Wallkill.

In the Dutchess County Scholastic League, Roosevelt had its tilt at Wappingers Falls postponed and the Beacon at Saugerties game was also put off to a later date.

No new dates have been set for any of the postponed games.

Greene Nimrods Reaffirm Stand On Deer Permits

The Greene County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs reaffirmed its resolution this week requesting the Conservation Department to authorize a special deer season in areas of the state requiring control to protect farm property during the winter.

The new resolution adopted by the sportsmen's group at its meeting Thursday night at Earlton was similar to the one passed at the December 18 meeting.

Some minor changes were made. The new resolution provides that the time and duration of the special season and the manner of taking the deer and other necessary regulations shall be determined by the Conservation Department. Two department men attended the meeting.

After the December meeting it was announced that legislation was sought permitting a special deer season in Greene County to reduce the deer herds in certain sections for crop protection.

The federation asked Assemblyman William E. Brady of Coxsack to introduce and secure passage of the necessary legislation permitting a special open season on a permit basis.

Action was motivated by reports from member clubs and Ulster County members that the deer herds had returned to the apple orchard of Hiram Palmer of Lawrenceville, who reportedly shot 116 deer last year under special permit. The permit authorized the fruit grower to exterminate the deer to protect buds that made the year's apple crop.

It was estimated that deer in his 16-acre orchard last year reduced the value of the apple crop by $15,000 to $20,000.

It was assumed from the discussion on the permit system that Ulster County sportsmen, some of whom belong to Cemen-ton Sportsmen's Club, would be eligible to secure the special permits if made available.

Kit Carson, famed Indian scout, chose Taos, N. M., as his permanent home and his residence there now is a museum.

Male straphanger — Madam, ou are standing on my foot. Woman—Oh, I beg your pardon. I thought it belonged to the man sitting down.

Mrs. O'Brien—How much are our fish, Mr. Goldstein? Mr. Goldstein—Eight cents a pound, Mrs. O'Brien. Mrs. O'Brien—I'll take two of them. How much will they be? Mr. Goldstein—Let's see. Eight pounds—eight times eight are eighty-eight. Take 'em for seventy-five cents, Mrs. O'Brien. Mrs. O'Brien—Thank you, Mr. Goldstein, I'll do that. You're always good to the Irish—I'll say that for ye. And the trade was closed.

In July or December the most popular holiday green still comes from the U. S. mint.

Nerve Warfare There's nothing more confusing or a more unnerve sight Than to drive behind a woman Who does everything just right! —Roger W. Dana

In competition for neighborhood trade, two grocers became engaged in a price war with eggs as the bargaining weapon. Leading off, one grocer reduced his eggs five cents a dozen. His competitor quickly met the price. Another five-cent slash and, again, the competitor tagged along.

The low prices were in effect for several days when the originator of the war finally called a truce.

Originator—Let's quit this silly business. We can't keep selling eggs at this terrific loss. Rival—What loss? I've been buying my eggs from you.

We dived 20,000 feet and all of my sins passed before me. It was so interesting we asked the pilot to do it again.

Give a man alms and you give him temporary relief, but give him work and you save him.

The real home stretch is making both ends meet.

No Help

Magnetic compasses are of no help in the areas above Hudson Bay and below the Straits of Magellan, close to the magnetic poles.

Among the first plants to grow on any ice-scoured land, lichens act as pioneers for flowers and trees.
